

Application is made at City Hall

Design Review is required if the property is located in a Historic District. This determination is made by the zoning administrator.

The project is reviewed for compliance with Mount Vernon design guidelines by the design review committee which consists of members of the Historic Preservation Commission.

If a project does not comply with the guidelines, the review committee will make specific recommendations that will bring the work into compliance.

